

A photograph of a wine bottle with a white label. The bottle is dark green and contains a yellowish liquid. The label is a large, blank white rectangle. The bottle is positioned on the left side of the page, with its reflection visible on the surface below it.

Rouvalis Winery

Asproolithi 2019

Greece > Peloponnese > Achaia

Dry, White, Still wine

100% Roditis

A delightfully fresh, white wine with excellent mouth feel that tantalizes the nose and palate with fruity aromas and a strong backbone of citrus aromas that are typical of the Roditis variety. Certain minerality comes from the distinctive qualities of the region.

About us

Much like a monastery, just 3 Km from the National Road of Korinthos – Patras, on the junction of Aigion. Rouvalis Winery was built in 1994 in six different levels. It combines monastery simplicity and tranquillity, while it utilizes the natural gravity flow. The Slopes of Aigialeia are situated in the northern Peloponnese -just 120km from Athens- in the mountainous region above the town of Aigion. They are one of the very few north-facing regions in Greece so the vines benefit from the cooling northern breezes of summer. The altitude of the vineyards (500 – 1050 metres above sea level) is a determinant of the quality of wines.